Gallery
Bronze
Statuary—
a unique garden art collection of imported, hand-
crafted bronze

sculptures, pond
statues, and home décor accents, presented by Design Toscano. We design or hand-select every beautiful item in our line to ensure the finest quality.

Garden Gallery Bronze Statuary creations are cast using the ancient “lost wax” method —an exacting, centuries old process still used today because of its ability to render exceptional detail and character.
This multi-step, labor-intensive method requires artisans to hand-detail and finish every piece.

Our artists sculpt the original work in clay.

The “mother mold” is made which will then be used to create wax impressions.

The wax impression is then coated in plaster and kiln fired to harden.

The tradition of bronze casting dates back thousands of years to cultures that valued the strength, beauty and versatility of this metal. Bronze is an alloy of copper, blended with a variety of hardening agents, including zinc, tin, magnesium or silicon. It lasts indefinitely, withstanding virtually all climatic conditions. If left untreated, it will weather and oxidize into a classic verdigris patina, which our applied green finishes emulate. If preferred, the original appearance can be maintained with an occasional waxing to retard the natural oxidation process.

At Garden Gallery Bronze Statuary we pride ourselves on the excellence and diversity of our collection—from whimsical children to realistic wildlife, and from classic images to lively, spouting pond sculptures.

The timeless elegance and heirloom quality of Garden Gallery Bronze Statuary is inherent in every one of our sculptures, which are sure to enhance any home or garden setting.

See pages 34-35 for our extraordinary custom order life-size bronze horses!

After the "lost wax" is melted out, red hot molten bronze is poured into the mold.

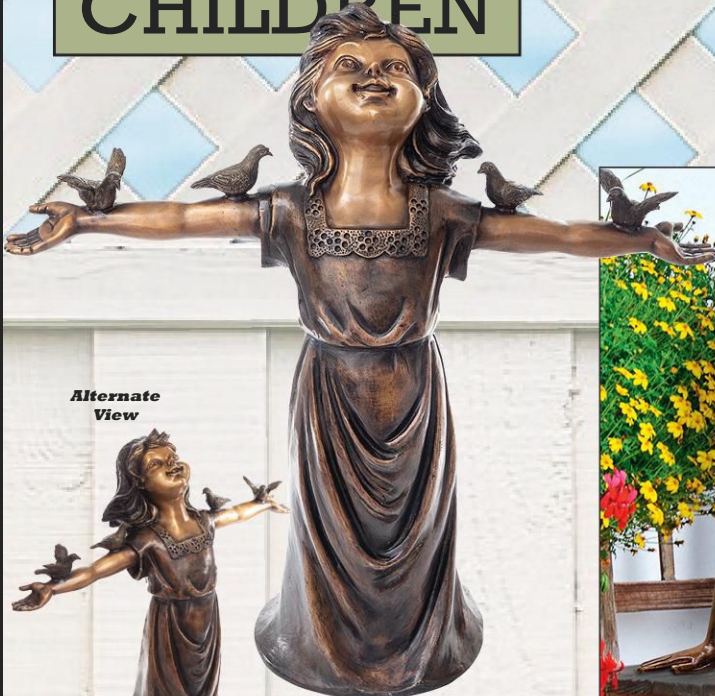

The cooled mold is cracked open and cleaned of mold vents and supports.

The bronze statue is polished and prepared for final color patina finishing.
